As the title suggests, this couple did reach ‘Happily Ever After’, but only after some hair-raising truth telling and overcoming obstacles that would have stopped most in their tracks.

The authors hope that their book will inspire couples to keep talking, even when it is tough. Their story flows back and forth between the male and female perspectives and shows how to turn arguments and blame into communication and understanding.

Landon Carter, a graduate of Yale and Harvard Business School, led trainings for est and Lifespring and is the author of “Living Awake”. Diane Covington-Carter, graduated from UCLA with honors and is an award winning writer and Life Coach.
